LIBRARY OF THE BOMBAY BRANCH OF THE ROYAL ASIATIC SOCIETY

CALVERT'S CRESOL DISINFECTANT & PURIFIER,
8oz. 6d., 16oz. 1s., & 32oz. 1s. 6d. Bottles.
1 gallon Tins, 3s. each. (English rates.)
With full instructions for use on each package.
This fluid mixes readily with water in any proportion; it is much stronger in disinfecting power than other so-called non-poisonous fluids, and less expensive. It is very effective and cheap (1 solution) for destroying Ants, washing Cattle, and to prevent Fly Bites on Animals.

A TERRIBLE COUGH.
A TERRIBLE COUGH.

"94, Commercial Road, Peckham, July 12.

"Dear Sir,—I am a poor hand at expressing my feelings, but I should like to thank you. Your lozenges have done wonders in relieving my terrible cough. Since I had the prescription of 'Trachetorry' (the same as the late Emperor of Germany, and unlike him, thank God, I am still alive) performed at St. Bartholomew's Hospital, no one could possibly have had a more violent cough; it was so bad at times that it quite exhausted me. The mucous, which was very copious and hard, has been softened, and I have been able to get rid of it without difficulty.—I am, Sir, yours truly, J. HILL."

"South Park, Cardiff, South Wales, Sept. 28, 1893.

"I have, indeed, great pleasure in adding my testimony to your excellent preparation of Cough Lozenges, and I have prescribed it now for the last eight years in my hospitals and private practice, and found it of great benefit. I often suffer from Chronic Bronchitis; your Lozenges is the only remedy which gives me immediate ease. Therefore I certainly and most strongly recommend your Lozenges to the public who may suffer from Catarrh, Bronchitis, Winter Cough, or any kind of Pulmonary Irritation.—Yours truly,

SOUNDY'S
TENSE STEEL FRAME PIANOS
FOR INDIA.

THE METAL FRAMES of our PIANOS are now being constructed on an entirely new principle, giving the greatest possible resistance against climatic influence, absolute security to the pin plank, and, being of steel, a maximum rigidity is obtained, with a minimum of weight consistent with strength. These desirable results have been attained after many years' experience of the effect the Indian climate has on Pianos.

The tone is all that can be desired and is of a pure singing quality, but with a resonance not to be found in the general run of Iron Frame Pianos.

Our Imoria for the coming Season will be the finest we have ever offered, for excellence of workmanship, exterior finish, quality of tone and durability.

HEALTH HAS BEEN RESTORED, ENERGY REGAINED, AND LIFE PROLONGED, IN THOUSANDS OF CASES BY THE USE OF THE

PHOSPHORUS COMPOUNDS
PREPARED BY
H. & T. KIRBY & CO., LD., LONDON.

THE ONLY FORM KNOWN TO BE A SAFE AND CERTAIN CURE, AND CONSTANTLY PRESCRIBED BY MEDICAL MEN IN ALL PARTS OF THE WORLD.

Twenty-five Years' Experience has established the Fact that these Pills supply the MOST EFFECTUAL MEANS of administering SAFELY and SUCCESSFULLY

THE ONLY REMEDY FOR LOSS NERVE POWER, NERVOUS EXHAUSTION, AND MENTAL DEPRESSION, ARISING FROM

OVERWORK, WORRY, EXCESS, CLIMATIC and other DEPRESSING CAUSES.

These PILLS ARE TAKEN WITH GREAT BENEFIT in Malarial Neuralgias, and incapacity for Intellectual or Business Work, as they rapidly restore Physical Vigour and Mental Activity.

The following have a large application. Those numbered 6 and 9 are taken with great advantage to STIMULATE THE NERVOUS SYSTEM. They operate as real NUTRIENT TONICS, giving increase of power in all cases of loss of Mental and Physical Vigour.

PHOSPHORUS AND NUX VOMICA PILLS, No. 6.

Nux Vomica in combination with Phosphorus is a very potent medicine, acting as a tonic both on the brain and spinal cord. It is useful in cases of cerebral and spinal debility, atonic dyspepsia, liverties of spirits, and habitual constipation, general ill-health (below par), commonly arising from overwork.

PHOSPHORUS NUX VOMICA, AND IRON PILLS, No. 13.

IRON is added to the combination with Nux Vomica for persons who are anæmic. It is especially beneficial in Neuralgia and other manifestations of nervous exhaustion occurring in feeble, bloodless (anæmic) persons.

SIMPLE PHOSPHORUS PILLS, No. 1.

These carry the usual dose of Phosphorus only. They are taken as a nutrient tonic with great advantage in all cases manifesting Loss of Nerve Power from over excitement and excessive activity of the brain when Iron or Quinine cannot be given.

PHOSPHORUS AND DAMIANA PILLS, No. 34.

These are made with the Extract of the "True" Damiana Plant, the properties of which are well known. It is a valuable aid to Phosphorus when given as a remedy for Loss of Power. Formula No. 26 contains Nux Vomica also, and is therefore a more powerful combination.

COMPOUND PHOSPHORUS PILLS, No 9.

(Containing Phosphorus, Iron, Quinine

MACLEAN'S GUIDE TO BOMBAY AND BOMBAY DIRECTORY FOR 1895.

With Portrait of H. E. the Viceroy, LORD ELGIN.

PRINTED AND PUBLISHED
At the "BOMBAY GAZETTE" OFFICE.

PRICE: Rs. 5 with Postage, Rs. 5-4.

THE GUIDE AND DIRECTORY for the year 1895 contains much new and valuable information brought down to date, and narrates the history of the remarkable progress made by the City in recent years.

While recording the advance that has been made in the commerce and manufacturing industry of Bombay, the GUIDE gives a comprehensive account of the numerous charitable institutions of the different communities, and accurate and detailed descriptions of many public buildings which have been completed during the year.

THE
BOMBAY DIRECTORY
Has been enlarged, verified, and carefully revised up to the day of going to Press. Valuable information has been added, and special care has been taken that the local information shall meet the wants of commercial men and the general public.

THE "Times," the leading newspaper in the world, says:—The volume may be viewed as a cyclop, and will afford similar examples of the astonishing growth of the city and of the province. The compiler says that nowhere else, probably, in the world, not even in Alexandria, are so many and such striking varieties of race, nationality and religion to be found as in Bombay. To all these varieties, and to a vast number of other statistics, as to the services, finances, manufactures, commerce, public health, and the like due attention is paid in this volume. The most important and interesting part of the Guide is the historical, which may be read at leisure, while the rest of the volume will serve as a trustworthy book of reference. A map of India and another of the island of Bombay add to the value of the Guide.

THE "London" Daily Chronicle" says:—There is not, and there never has been, a better Guide for any part of the world than that which Mr. J. M. Maclean, recently Member for Oldham originally published at Bombay in 1875. It is now annually brought up to date under the care of his successor in the editorship of the "Bombay Gazette," Mr. Grattan Geary, and we never open its pages without admiration for the masterly way in which it marshals the immense mass of facts connected with the rise and progress of the great and increasingly beautiful city which proudly calls itself "the" in India." Altogether, to anyone proceeding to or residing in the above-named city in India "Maclean's Guide to Bombay" is simply indispensable, while to the residents of one of the finest cities, situated on one of the very finest harbours in the whole empire, its value is beyond that of many rupees, of which it only costs five.

THE "Morning Post" says:—The edition for 1895 has been carefully revised, and much information added to meet the requirements of business men and the general public. The residents of Bombay, and also visitors, will find it an excellent work of reference as a direct reply as well as an historical and descriptive guide to this famous city.

THE "Observer" says:—This handy volume, with its up-to-date directory and varied information about Bombay, will be found an invaluable companion by visitors to India. The information on the commercial and manufacturing progress of the city has been brought up to the close of last year from official and other authentic sources; the public buildings are fully described, and a wealth of information of a varied character is given. The latest edition of this Guide will be found of great value by both visitors and residents.

DR. DE ROOS'
COMPOUND
RENAL PILLS

The only reliable remedy for Pains in the Back, Gravel, Lumbago, Gout, Rheumatism, Diseases of the Bladder, &c., which too frequently harass the sufferer in the best years of life, and not only in agonizing death. For weakness across the loins, sandy, or other deposits, they are indeed unrivalled. They correct acidity of the stomach, and promote the functions of the kidneys, thereby preventing stone in the bladder, &c. Many complaints, long supposed to be nervous, often arise solely from contamination of the blood with certain impurities which should have been carried off by the kidneys; and by the use of these Pills a speedy cure will be effected in ninety-nine cases out of one hundred. Sold in Packages at 1s. 1½d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s., by all the principal Merchants in India.

Purchasers are specially requested to see that every package bears the British Government Stamp, with the words "WALTER DE ROOS, LONDON" impressed thereon, in white letters on a red ground, and thus avoid worthless imitations.

DR. DE ROOS'
WORLD-FAMED
GUTTÆ VITÆ,
OR, LIFE DROPS.

The Great European Remedy for Nervous & Functional Debility, Spermatorrhœa, &c.

This remarkable rejuvenating essence strengthens the vitality of the whole system, gives energy to the muscles, and speedily restores the impaired powers of life, imparting strength and manly vigour to the most debilitated and worn-out constitution. Those who suffer from premature decay, or defective power of the Vital Forces, owing to indiscretion in early life, or any other cause, will find this medicine just what they require. Equally adapted for the studious and sedentary; the aged and infirm; the nervous and debilitated; as also for delicate females and weakly children. All sufferers from loss of appetite, nervous headache, lassitude, and despondency—too often accompanied with suicidal intentions—should make their case their special study. Here is a wonderful medicine, which is daily effecting the most remarkable cures in patients who had been given up by the Faculty. In all cases of nervous and functional debility (arising from whatever cause), it is truly unrivalled. To married persons especially, this preparation will prove invaluable, giving strength and vigour in place of lassitude and incapacity.—Price 11s., or four times that quantity, 33s. per bottle.

DR. DE ROOS' COMPOUND RENAL PILLS, for Pains in the Back, Gravel, Lumbago, Gout, Rheumatism, Diabetes, and all Kidney Affections; Weakness across the Loins, Sandy, or other Deposits, Discharges, and Diseases of the Urinary Organs generally.—Price 2s. 9d.

DR. DE ROOS' VEGETABLE LIFE PILLS, for Indigestion, Biliousness, and all disorders of the Liver, Stomach, and Bowels; whilst as a universal family medicine for both sexes, and all ages, they are unequalled.—13d., and 2s. 9d., per Box.

DR. DE ROOS' PILE AND FISTULA PILLS, the only reliable remedy for these annoying and painful ailments. Price 2s. 9d. per Box.

Purchasers are particularly requested to see that every package of Dr. De Roos' MEDICINES bears the British European Government Stamp, with the words "WALTER DE ROOS, LONDON," impressed thereon in white letters on a red ground, and refuse worthless imitations frequently put forward by unscrupulous vendors for the sake of extra profit.

DEBILITATED and NERVOUS SUFFERERS should read the Medical Adviser, by Dr. De Roos, containing 192 pages, of information which every young man should possess, on the causes of nervous debility, impotency, depression of spirits, and confirmed melancholy. Sent post free on receipt of twelve penny stamps (English or Colonial), by Mr. LAWES, Medical Publisher, 14 HAND COURT, HOLBORN, LONDON, W.C., or obtainable of any of the Agents for Dr. DE ROOS' Medicines.

KNIGHT OF THE ORDER OF LEOPOLD OF BELGIUM
KNIGHT OF THE LEGION OF HONOUR
LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL

THE PUREST. THE MOST PALATABLE. THE MOST DIGESTIBLE. THE MOST EFFICACIOUS.

Incontestably proved by Thirty-eight Years' Medical Experience to be
The only Cod Liver Oil which produces the full curative effects in CONSUMPTION AND DISEASES OF THE CHEST, THROAT AFFECTIONS, GENERAL DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE SKIN, WASTING DISEASES OF CHILDREN, RICKETS, AND ALL SCROFULOUS DISORDERS.

SELECT MEDICAL OPINIONS.

SIR G. DUNCAN GIBB, Bart., M.D.,
Physician to the Westminster Hospital.

"The value of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL as a therapeutic agent in a number of diseases, chiefly of an exhaustive character, has been admitted by the world of medicine; but, in addition, I have found it a remedy of great power in the treatment of many Affections of the Throat and Larynx, especially in Consumption of the latter, where it will sustain life when everything else fails."

DR. SINCLAIR COGHILL,
Physician to the Royal National Hospital for Consumption, Ventnor.

"I have constituted myself that in Tubercular and the various forms of Strumous Disease, DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER OIL possesses greater therapeutic efficacy than any other Cod Liver Oil with which I am acquainted. It was especially noted, in a large number of cases in which the patients protested they had never been able to retain or digest other Cod Liver Oil, that DR. DE JONGH'S OIL was not only tolerated, but taken readily, and with marked benefit."

JOSEPH J. POPE, Esq., M.R.C.S.,
Late Staff Surgeon, Army, Professor of Hygiene, Birkbeck Institution, London.

"I found during my Indian experience that the worth and character of DR. DE JONGH'S LIGHT-BROWN COD LIVER

ASTIGMATISM is due to the want of perfectly corresponding symmetry of curvature in the refracting parts of the eye in certain directions. Many persons after failing to obtain glasses to improve their defective vision up to the normal standard, from Goldsmiths, Chemists, or other vendors of spectacles, have resigned themselves to the conviction that further improvement is unattainable. In the majority of such cases ASTIGMATISM would probably be found on proper examination, and the addition of a positive or negative cylinder of the right power at the required angle would confer a delightful revelation. With ladies particularly, astigmatism is often the unsuspected cause of distressing disturbances of the nervous system that entirely disappear when it is corrected by suitable glasses. The necessary lenses, either simple or compound cylindrical, can be manufactured at either of our Factories in India. We are thus enabled, not only to prepare the spectacles within a reasonable time, but to give great attention to the exact adjustment upon which successful results depend.

BOMBAY MARKET REPORT.

FRIDAY EVENING, OCT. 4.

THE spurt in Cotton which, in sympathy with the strong upward movement in the governing markets for this staple, enlivened our export market last week, has, meantime, subsided to a great extent, the business reported for account of shippers having been upon only a moderate scale this week, while local spinners have been very small buyers, and the advance in prices has been checked, though the feeling has remained steady. Wheat and Seeds have been in moderate demand for export, and the tone of both markets has been steady; but no movement in prices has taken place. Exchange has been steady to firm, and rates, after fluctuating to the extent of 3-32d., have latterly hardened, and close this evening 1-8d. higher both for Bank and Private Paper than last Friday's final quotations. The demand for Money is as slack as ever, and the supply still superabundant. Government Paper has advanced 11-16 per cent. during the week. The Freight market has improved to the extent of about 1s. per ton. Cargo for prompt shipment is still as scarce as before; but there is very little tonnage offering, and holders are firm. The advance in the value of Cotton in Liverpool has led to some increase in the demand for Imports on this side, and prices of staple Manchester goods have an upward tendency.

MONEY.—There was little or no change in the figures relating to the trade demand for money in the week which ended a day sooner than usual last Friday owing to another Saturday holiday, the farther increase of over 18½ lakhs in the Presidency Bank's Cash Balance, at 507½ lakhs, having been due almost entirely to an increase in Government Deposits, both at the Bank's head office and branches, aggregating nearly 17 lakhs. The supply of Cash in the market had continued superabundant, but the enquiry for accommodation most limited, and though there was a small increase in Bills Discounted last week compared with the week preceding, this was much more than counterbalanced by a falling off in Loans; the net decrease in trade requirements having been about 1½ lakh, compared with a diminution of 13½ lakhs the week before.

The position has meantime remained unchanged, the demand for Money having been as slack as ever, and the supply superabundant with no prospect of present diminution. 3 per cent. remains the minimum rate of the Bank of Bombay.

EXCHANGE re-opened on Monday morning after Saturday's holiday with a steady feeling at 1s. 1½d. for Bank Telegraphic and Demand, and at 1s. 1 21-32d. for three months' sight Credits for October delivery; 1s. 1 5/8d. for November-December; 1s. 1 21-32d. for 1896, at which a fair amount of Paper was placed; but for Bank media of remittance the enquiry was limited throughout the day, and rates consequently hardened somewhat for ready, and closed firm. The market opened the following day at 1s. 1 9-16d. for Bank Telegraphic and Demand, and at 1s. 1 21-32d. for three months' sight Credits, and remained at the latter rate, with but a very limited business having been done; while for Bank Paper there was no enquiry until 1-32d. higher was obtainable, and then a fair amount was reported to have been placed, ready on Wednesday the 1st inst. at 1s. 1 23-32d. for Bank Telegraphic and Demand, at which a little was secured early in the day by the bazaar, the rate having then receded to 1s. 1 19-16d. For three months' sight Credits the opening rate was 1s. 1 11-16d., but no Bills having been offered, they also receded 1-32d., the market having closed quiet but steady. Forward Bank remittance was quoted at 1s. 1 19-32d. and Credits at 1s. 1 11-16 to ¾d. Yesterday the market was steady at opening with 1s. 1 9-16d. quoted for Bank Telegraphic, and partially 1s. 1 19 32d. for Demand, which latter rate was gradually absorbed by the bazaar, and rates became general at 1s. 1 9-16d. Telegraphic and Demand, at which again further business was done, also Telegraphic at 1s. 1 19-32d. for November Remittance, the enquiry for forward remittance having been, however, very limited. For three months' sight Credits the rate throughout the day was 1s. 1 23-32d. for October delivery, and, 1s. 1 11-16 to 23-32d. for further on, and at closing the market was quiet but steady. To-day the market opened firm at 1s. 1 19-32d. for Bank Telegraphic and Demand, and at 1s. 1 11-16d. for three month' sight Credits, at which latter rate a few Bills were placed; also at 1s. 1 11 32d. for November delivery, and at 1s. 1½ for 1896; but for Bank Paper the enquiry was very limited until 1s. 1 5-8 was available for ready and near delivery for Bank remittance, at which a considerable amount was taken. Later on, Merchants' Bills coming out again rates hardened all round, closing as follows:—

GOVERNMENT PAPER.—Monday having been the monthly settling day for September, there was a good deal of movement in the market, and rates, which opened at 109 1-8 for Cash and the Settlement, and at 108 13-16 for the next account, had declined at the close to 108⅞ for Money and 108 3-8 for October. On Tuesday rates were quoted at 108 7-8 for Cash and at 108 11-16 for this month's settlement, and advanced 1-8 per cent. to 109 and 108 11-16 in the two positions, respectively; but at closing a decline of 1-16 per cent. from these rates was quoted, 109 was the rate for cash at opening on Wednesday, and 100 11-16 that for this month's settlement. The market remained steady at these rates, but at the close 1-16 lower was quoted both for Money and Account. Yesterday the rate for cash opened at 109, and that for the next settling day at 108 13-16, and thereafter the market became firmer, and an advance of 3-16 per cent. took place, say to 109 3-16 for Money and 108 15-16 for Account, at which the market closed steady. There has been a firm feeling in this market to-day, and rates, which opened at 109¼ for cash, and 109½ for the settlement, advanced at one time to 109 5/8 and 109 3/8 in the two positions, respectively, but, at the close, were called 1/8 per cent lower.

Five per cents. Municipal Loan is one per cent. lower, at 131. Port Trust Bonds are unchanged at 110¼.

Not much general business has been reported in this market during the past week, a portion of which has been devoted to native holidays, but in Cotton Mill Scrip there has been some movement resulting in the majority of cases in buyers' favour. Compared with our quotations of a week ago we note an advance of Rs. 65 in Howard and Bullough; of Rs. 45 in Madras United; of Rs. 35 in Manockjee Petit; of Rs. 15 in Lukmidass; of Rs. 5 each in David, and James Greaves; and of Rs. 2½ in Colaba Land. While Dhun have declined Rs. 100; Indo China, Rs. 62½; Presidency, Rs. 80; Bombay, United and Kholapur, Rs. 40 each; City of Bombay, Rs. 30; Framjee Petit and Morarji Gocouldas, Rs. 20 each; Coorla, Rs. 15; Alliance and Mahaluxmee, Rs. 10 each; Mazagaon, Rs. 7½; and Anglo-Indian, Rs. 2. In Presses Fort Press have declined Rs. 100; Hingoli, Rs. 10; and Breul's Cownpore, Rs. 5; while Prince of Wales have advanced Rs. 10. In Miscellaneous Shares, Bombay-Burma Trading are Rs. 50 higher in the first issue, and Rs. 15 in the second; Kamp and Co. are Rs. 2 higher. Bank of Bombay shares are Rs. 5 lower.

IMPORTS.

GOODS.—In consequence of the activity in the Liverpool Cotton market, and of the advance in the price of Yarn in Manchester, there has been an increase in the demand for staple Grey Goods on this side, and prices have had an upward tendency. Holders of stocks, assorted by the rise in Exchange, go on selling at hardening rates to the wholesale buyers, and a few speculators, Grey Mulls and Jacconets having been more enquired for. Bleached Goods have been in more demand this week. Mulls, Nainsooks, and Jacconets having been in most enquiry, and are half-an anna per piece higher, especially medium and low qualities. In Turkey-Red, Printed, and Dyed Goods the market has been steady, but with little doing. Sellers of Locally-made Goods are a little firmer, and only a small business has transpired. The Clearances of Imported Goods from the Bazzar during the week have been about 4,500 packages; and of Local Goods some 2,000 bales.

YARNS.—The market for Imported Twist has been steady this week, with a moderate business passing; but prices all unchanged. Sales of Local Spinnings in China are given at about 6,000 bales, with Exchange slightly lower. Rates there are steady, but without any further advance. The market here is very firm at the close; but speculators are again afoot; and a China firm made purchases in the middle of the week. The week's Sales here are estimated at 3,000 bales.

METALS.—Both Copper and Yellow Metal have been in moderate request by buyers throughout the week, and have been steady in tone at last week's prices. Iron also has been in but moderate demand, and has declined 4 to 8 annas per cwt., the market being steady at the fall.

COAL.—Sales have been reported during the week of Powell's Duffryn, December January shipment, from Rs. 17/8 to Rs. 17/1 per ton; and of Dawson's West Hartley, September-October shipment, at 17½ per ton. The market closed [illegible] We quote alongside:—

EXPORTS.

COTTON.—Last week closed with only a moderate enquiry for this staple from exporters, and next to none from local consumers, but the tone of the market remained steady; and since then the Mills have bought very little, while a moderate business has continued to be done for shippers' account from day to day, in a steady market, prices having further advanced Re. 1 to Rs. 2 per candy at the beginning of the week. The business reported for export sums up about 9,000 bales, being purchases of ready Dholleras-Bhownugger descriptions, Oomras, Dharwar, Westerns, and Compta Ginned; and contracts for Bengal of the new crop, for January delivery; Oomra descriptions for January; Broach, for March; and Bhownugger, for April delivery. The Mills have taken about 2,000 bales, consisting of ready Bengal, Omras, and Dholleras. This evening the market closed strong with prices Rs. 5 per candy higher.

There were no telegraphic reports regarding the state of the Cotton crop at the beginning of the week owing to the Dussera holidays; but yesterday telegrams were received from the districts giving a generally good account of the plants which were flourishing in all the circles with the exception of Barsee, in the Oomra circle, where 2½ inches more rain had fallen; and the Bhownugger, in the Dholleras circle, where the drought continued, and where the absence of rain was causing anxiety.

The following are to-day's quotations for full-pressed Cotton with the equivalents in sterling, cost, and freight to Liverpool, via Canal, without Commission, viz.:—

THE KASHMIR TELEGRAPH.

Mr. Olpbert's report on the telegraph operations in Kashmir from 1891 to date, with a special report on the condition of the line between Srinagar and Astor after the winter of 1894-95, is published. It will be remembered that towards the end of 1891 Government felt the absolute necessity of establishing reliable telegraph communication with its outpost at Gilgit, and to ascertain whether this was practicable Mr. Olpbert was deputed to examine the route between Srinagar and Gilgit with a view to the selection of the most suitable one for a telegraph line by which communication could be maintained throughout the year with Gilgit. With this object in view a successful survey was taken to Astor, via Tragbal and Burgil passes, and the route to Shardu via Rioglia. This resulted in the selection of the route via Tragbal and Burgil as being a more preferable one for the permanent wire. On the 12th July, 1894, a line from Astor to Gilgit was formally taken over from the Kashmir State, and a line from Srinagar to Gilgit opened for traffic. In spite of the greatest possible difficulties that were experienced owing to floods and breaks, the first working year of this important line has been most satisfactory in every way, and a permanent telegraph communication has been established.

DICTIONARY OF ECONOMIC PRODUCTS.

Dr. Watt has received instructions from the Government of India to revise his dictionary of economic products immediately. Dr. Watt has informed Government that it will take him at least seven years to collect the material and to revise both in accordance with the suggestions of the authorities consulted. This term will be sanctioned by Government, and Dr. Watt will commence the work during winter of the current year.

THE PUNJAB COURTS ACT BILL.

The Punjab Courts Act Bill will be disposed of by the Government of India immediately.

The special work in connection with the preparation of Civil and Criminal Codes has been temporarily abandoned.

TOUR OF INSPECTOR-GENERAL OF IRRIGATION.

Colonel Ottley, Inspector-General of Irrigation, after his tour in India, will visit Burma in December, with a view to inspecting several irrigation projects now under preparation in the Upper Province. His tour is likely to extend to seven weeks.

THE VICEROY'S TOUR.

The undermentioned Officer has leave of absence:—Royal Artillery—Captain Wood, Ordnance Officer, Quetta, from 26th August to the 14th September 1895, on private affairs, in India.

THE FORTHCOMING NATIONAL CONGRESS.

(FROM A CORRESPONDENT.)

SATARA, Oct. 4.

The Hon. Mr. Tilak, in response to a public invitation, explained the situation of Congress affairs in Poona, and removed all possible misapprehensions largely due to certain newspaper writings. Rao Bahadur Agte presided, and the large public gathering, through Mr. Karandikar, promised Satara contributions by November. The meeting is calculated to silence all the local Poona factions, whose views can't affect the moffussil, and to secure the due fulfilment of Congress duties. The Hon. Mr. Tilak lectured on public opinion. He leaves here to-night for Poona.

ROYAL BOMBAY GOLF CLUB.

THE GOLFERS' CUP.

This cup was subscribed for by the golfers in 1891, and is played twice annually, in February and in August, over one round of nine holes. Unlike most of the prizes of the Royal Bombay Golf Club, the winning of the Golfers' cup is decided by match play and not by medal play, that is, it is played for by holes, and the result is not dependent on the aggregate of strokes taken in the round. Accordingly it is a popular contest, and the farther fact that it is played for under handicap adds to its popularity. For the last contest, which was played off in August and September last there were no less than twenty-eight entries, and the winner turned up in Mr. C. H. S. Boggs, who was allowed one stroke as handicap at the fifth hole. Though seemingly only a small allowance, it turned out to be of valuable assistance as in his final tie with Mr. E. F. Nicholson, who played at scratch, it materially helped to bring him in winner of the cup, the winner beating the runner up by one hole up. Owing to the Nassik Golf week intervening, the final tie in the present contest was not played off until Saturday last, the 28th September.

According to the conditions under which the Golfers' cup is held, as noted in the Club Rules Book, Mr. C. H. S. Boggs is now entitled to be called the Champion of the Club (until some other golfer wins the cup from him), and to have his name engraved on the cup. The following are the results of the ties:—

FIRST TIES.

Mr. R. M. Watson Smyth (3 strokes) beat Mr. C. F. Levick (2 strokes).

Mr. E. F. Nicholson (scratch) beat Mr. T. S. Walker (2 strokes).

Mr. P. F. Fischer (3 strokes) beat Mr. H. S. Read (4 strokes).

Mr. R. C. Wroughton (scratch) beat Mr. A. B. Warden (3 strokes).

Revd. R. M. Gray (scratch) beat Mr. P. Merryweather (3 strokes).

Mr. M. F. Reid (scratch) beat Mr. E. A. English (5 strokes).

Dr. Macdonald (scratch) beat Mr. J. Stiven (scratch).

Comdr. Holland (5 strokes) beat Mr. V. E. Beith (4 strokes).

Mr. C. H. S. Boggs (1 stroke) beat Mr. D. Forbes (3 strokes).

Mr. T. Sharples (1 stroke) and Mr. W. M. Fleisher (3 strokes) each had a walk over. Mr. H. R. Greaves (5 strokes) and Mr. E. S. Raikes (1 stroke) retiring.

Mr. L. T. Robertson (2 strokes was all even on playing off with Surg.-Col. Banks (3 strokes) who afterwards retired in the former's favour.

Messrs. A. Stephen (3 strokes) C. W. Thorne (7 strokes) W. L. Harvey (5 strokes) and C. St. Paul (2 strokes) had byes.

SECOND TIES.

Mr. A. Stephen (3 strokes) beat Mr. C. W. Thorne (7 strokes).

Mr. E. F. Nicholson (scratch) beat Mr. R. M. Watson-Smyth (3 strokes).

Mr. R. C. Wroughton (scratch) beat Mr. P. F. Fischer (3 strokes).

Mr. M. F. Reid (scratch) beat Revd. R. M. Grey (scratch).

Dr. Macdonald (scratch) beat Comdr. Holland (5 strokes).

Mr. L. J. Robertson (2 strokes) beat Mr. T. Sharples (1 stroke).

Mr. C. H. S. Boggs (1 stroke) beat Mr. W. M. Fleischer (3 strokes).

Mr. W. L. Harvey (5 strokes) beat Mr. C. St. Paul (2 strokes).

THIRD TIES.

Mr. E. F. Nicholson (scratch) beat Mr. A. Stephen (3 strokes).

Mr. R. C. Wroughton (scratch) beat Mr. M. F. Reid (scratch).

Mr. L. J. Robertson (2 strokes) beat Dr. Macdonald (scratch).

Mr. C. H. S. Boggs (1 stroke) beat Mr. W. L. Harvey (5 strokes).

FOURTH TIES.

Mr. E. F. Nicholson (scratch) beat Mr. R. C. Wroughton (scratch).

Mr. C. H. S. Boggs (1 stroke) beat Mr. L. J. Robertson (2 strokes).

FINAL TIE.

Mr. C. H. S. Boggs (1 stroke) beat Mr. E. F. Nicholson (scratch) and won the cup.

WOMEN'S WAYS.

(FROM OUR LADY CORRESPONDENT.)

LONDON, Sept. 12.

Is this naughty world growing naughtier? People seem to think it is—especially those good old conservative folk, who can look back to the days when girls spent their days making jam and syllabub, darning the house linen and working cross stitch Berlin wool slippers for the curate. And judging by results there is some show of reason in their opinion that the higher education of women which has substituted political for domestic economy, and set aside sock-mending for mathematics is a direct downgrade route than one the dairy or the store closet. The worst wicked of the early Victorian young person was to fall in love and elope with her groom or coachman; while our modern mathematical young lady has infinite possibilities of naughtiness opened up to her by her wider knowledge and experience. So much so, that the sowing of wild oats is no longer a male monopoly. Girls shew quite as much facility as their brothers in that and the kindred occupation of "reaping the whirlwind."

Lady Frances Rose Gun Ing's forgery case is not exactly an example of the demoral zing effects of advanced education; for Lady Gunning is fifty-three years old, and her up-bringing must have been concluded before the founding of the school of thought which has produced the New Woman. But indirectly it is a result of women's progress. If feminine independence were not established, there would have been no Addison Club, no need for promissory notes, or forged securities, and Lady Jannigg would be still at large, in all probability engaged, after the manner of other clergymen's wives and daughters, in conducting flower missions, mother's sewing classes, or Bible search competitions. But possessed of the spirit of the age—the demon of money-making—Lady Gunning turned to speculation, got into debts and difficulties, and lost her credit and her character. "It is easy," according to Becky Sharp, "to be good on £5,000 a year."

This poor daughter of a clergyman and wife of another clergyman-baronet seems to have shared the fatality of going to the bad that belongs to the carefully reared sons of the clergy. She forged the name of her father and his churchwarden to deeds and promissory notes; she obtained money in one case from a young lady under a deed of partnership in the Addison Club. Under the deed the young lady was to receive £400 per annum in exchange for her deposit of £1,300. But all the money she ever got was £31. From another young lady £2,000 was taken in exchange of shares which were never delivered. In all, a sum amounting to £3,601 had been obtained by Lady Gunning in various ways, more or less discreditable, a tenth of which she was only able to account for. According to report, the greater part of the money had been squandered in betting, but of this there was no distinct proof given.

It was thought by Lady Gunning's relatives that having been in custody seven weeks, the judge would see fit to release her under proper security for her future conduct and the repayment of her debts. But the time has gone by when to be a lady was sufficient excuse for a mitigation of a sentence. The judge dismissed the idea at once. The case, he said, was one of systematic forgery, and the penalty twelve months' imprisonment with hard labour.

The sentence was not severe considering all the injury done—the impoverished girls, the squandered earnings of hard-working tradespeople, the dangerous example to their unprincipled speculators—nor is it likely to be carried out in its full severity. Genile folk have their ways of escaping the treadmill or the oakum picking. They get hysterical and are let off, when their sturdy comrades in crime being of a commoner stouter fibre have no pity shewn them. And after all why not. The whole thing is greatly a question of look. There is not a vast difference between the methods of the successful and the unsuccessful speculator. If Lady Gunning had managed to found her club and made a fortune out of it, people would have applauded her pluck, her perseverance; she would like other company promoters have paid her shareholders, refunded the money overdrawn, and no one would have thought her speculation risky or dishonest.

Revolting daughters are bad enough in the secular world, but what would the churches and chapels do if their womankind went on strike? In spite of its foundation on a rock, the Christian Church would be in a mighty shaky condition if its women's hands were not held firmly up to steady it. And the same may be said of every Chapel, meeting-house and conventicle. Women, strong and patient, bear the burden on their shoulders silently like the caryatides of the Pagan temples, while men uplift their voices and take all the credit of the world's conversion. But it seems as if women had nearly enough of this one-sided arrangement. There is a lively discussion going on in the Wesleyan Press on account of the refusal of the elders or authorities sitting in conference to allow women to share in the debates. The Westminster Gazette sees signs of an uprising of Methodist women in the attitude of some of the ministers' ladies. For instance, a minister's wife preparing to change circuits and spending several hours a day in the toil of packing and house-cleaning is sarcastic at the objection put forward by the heads of the conference "that women is the weaker vessel." She would like to know what it is that tests the physical strength of the average Conference delegate. Is it the journey thither in reserved saloon carriage with hot dinner served en route? Or is it the daily attendance at the Chapel, where overworked representatives listen to the debates if they are interesting, and write letters home if they are not? Or are the marine trips and the Mayor's reception too fatiguing? Finally, this daring lady points out what has hitherto escaped most male exponents of the New Testament: That Christ is never recorded to have rebuked women except for a too close attention to those very domestic matters, which adverse critics are so afraid they may neglect. If compromise is possible, she says, the Methodist men can offer it the better for the continuity of their gospel. A strike of the unrepresented sex would not only result in no more bazaars or tea meetings, it would mean the collapse of the religious movement. The average man has not enough piety to keep a chapel going:

The one thing that the average man can keep going is the discussion on the "to be or not to be" of the divided skirt. Naturally at this season it is a prominent question. But while admitting men's right to criticize women's costume and to make suggestions for improving and adapting it to modern requirements, all dictation on their part as to what is or is not fit for women's wear should be repudiated. In matters of propriety and fitness women are perfectly well able to judge for themselves. As the Philadelphia Item says: "Let the women alone—they can work out their own salvation, and if they desire to wear bloomers, why let them bloom!"

The American Press, on the whole seems, according to an article in the Literary Digest, to be resigned to the triumph of bloomers. The Boston Standard says "that the ordinary dress worn by women is entirely unsuitable for the bicycle. In the attempt to find a garb which will allow the rider the necessary freedom of action and yet preserve the proprieties, many monstrosities have been produced: but these defective dresses will disappear in the process of time, and good taste will find a way to unite utility and propriety in some general style of garments to which the majority of lady bicyclists will conform. Even then some of these public howlers will object to the bicycle for women, unless it can be rigged with a side saddle, and its power to give health and recreation practically destroyed.

These antediluvian objectors need to be taught that character is in the individual and not in the dress, and that it is more clearly revealed by manner than by garments. A modest woman will not lose her modesty because she gets out of the corsets and stays, the tight boots and heavy skirts, which have crippled her body and hampered her activity so long, and puts on garments which allow the freedom of action which God intended the human body to have when he put it together. The present trend towards open air sports is a hopeful sign. The mingling of the sexes in wholesome exercise will do much to prevent the evils which croaking objectors fear. We need an advance and not a retreat. When men and women forget sex differences in the common comradeship, which is possible between intellectual and social equals, unless the whole plan of social life is a bungle, we shall have less occasion to build a wall around chastity.

The New York Sun joins in the chorus of hopeful prophecy as to the future of the lady cyclist. "The disfavour" it says, "with which many people, both men and women, look upon the stimulation of this feminine passion for wheeling is not at all surprising. The practise is undoubtedly revolutionsing habits to which women have been tied, and it runs counter to immemorial prejudieces as to the sphere within which feminine activities should be confined. It is giving them self-reliance and overcoming the timidity which used to be considered so appropriate to them as beings who needed the shelter of seclusion and the protection of manly courage. It is making them the comrades of men in sports and employments from which before they had turned as unfeminine. It is accustoming them to publicity. It is inciting in them the ambition for muscular development. But, after all, are such results deplorable? Will not the race gain by reason of them? As to the attractiveness of women continuing and even increasing no one need doubt. "It is content with women that alone can give the finishing touches to the individuality of man," says Dorothea Gerard in 'Recha;' and what better opportunity for receiving the finishing touches could he desire than cycling with her.

THE SPRING RUNNING.

A JUNGLE STORY,

By RUDYARD KIPLING.

PART II.

In his excitement, as he remembered the fight on Waiganga bank, he shouted the last words aloud, and a wild buffalo-cow among the reeds sprang to her knees, snorting, "Man!"

"Uhh!" said Mysa, the wild buffalo (Mowgli could hear him turn in his wallow), "that is no man. It is the only hairless wolf of the Seeonee Pack. On such nights runs he to and fro."

"Uhh!" said the cow, dropping her head again to graze, "I thought it was man."

"I say no. Oh, Mowgli, is it danger?" lowed Mysa.

"Oh, Mowgli is it danger?" the boy called back mockingly.

"That is all Mysa thinks for: Is it danger? But for Mowgli, who goes to and fro in the Jungle by night watching, what care ye?"

"How loud he cries!" said the cow.

"Thus do they cry," Mysa answered contemptuously, "who having torn the grass up know not how to eat it."

"For less than this," Mowgli grosned to himself, "for less than this even last Rains I had pricked Mysa out of his wallow and ridden him through the swamp on a rush halter." He stretched his hand to break one of the feathery reeds, but drew it back with a sigh. Mysa went on steadily chewing the cud and the long grass ripped where the cow grazed. "I will not die here" he said angrily. "Mysa, who is of one blood with Jacala and the pig, would see me. Let us go beyond the swamp, and see what comes. Never have I run such a spring-running—hot and cold together. Up, Mowgli!"

He could not resist the temptation of stealing across the reeds to Mysa and pricking him with the point of his knife. The great dripping bull broke out of his wallow like a shell exploding while Mowgli laughed till he sat down.

"Say now that the hairless wolf of the Seeonee pack once herded thee, Mysa," he called.

"Wolf! Thou!" the bull snorted, stamping in the mud. "All the Jungle knows thou wast a herder of tame cattle—such a man's brat as shouts in the dust by the crops yonder. Thou of the Jungle! What hunter would have crawled like a snake among the leeches, and for a mouldy jest—a jackal's jest—have shamed me before my cow? Come to firm ground, and I will—I will"... Mysa frothed at the mouth, for Mysa has nearly the worst temper of anyone in the Jungle.

Mowgli watched him puff and blow with eyes that never changed. When he could make himself heard through the spattering mud, he said: "What Man-pack lair here by the marshes, Mysa? Tais is new Jungle to me."

"Go north, then," roared the angry bull, for Mowgli had pricked him rather sharply. "It was a naked cow-herd's jest. Go and tell them at the village at the foot of the marsh."

"The Man-pack do not love jungle-tales, nor do I think, Mysa, that a scratch more or less on thy hide is any matter for a council. But I will go and look at this village. Yes, I will go. Softly now! It is not every night that the Master of the Jungle comes to herd thee."

He stepped out to the shivering ground on the edge of the marsh, well knowing that Mysa would never charge over it, and laughed, as he ran, to think of the bull's anger.

"My strength is not altogether gone, he said. "It may be the poison is not to the bone. There is a star sitting low yonder." He looked at it steadily between half-shut hands. "By the Bull that bought me, it is the Red Flower—the Red Flower that I lay beside before—before I came even to the first Seeonee Pack! Now that I have seen I will finish the running."

The marsh ended in a broad plain where a light twinkled. It was a long time since Mowgli had concerned himself with the doings of men, but this night the glimmer of the Red Flower drew him forward.

"I will look," said he, "as I did in the old days, and I will see how far the Man-pack has changed."

Forgetting that he was no longer in his own Jungle where he could do what he pleased, he trod carelessly through the dew-loaded grasses till he came to the hut where the light stood. Three or four yelping dogs gave tongue, for he was on the outskirts of a village.

"Ho!" said Mowgli, sitting down noiselessly, after sending back a deep wolf-growl that silenced the curs. "What comes will come. Mowgli, what hast thou to do any more with the lairs of the Man-pack?" He rubbed his mouth, remembering where a stone had stuck it years ago when the other Man-pack had cast him out.

The door of the hut opened and a woman stood peering out into the darkness. A child cried, and the woman said over her shoulder, "Sleep. It was but a jackal that waked the dogs. In a little time morning comes."

Mowgli in the grass began to shake as though he had fever. He knew that voice well, but to make sure he called softly, surprised to find how man's talk came back, "Messua! O Messua!"

"Who calls!" said the woman, a quiver in her voice.

"Hast thou forgotten?" said Mowgli: his throat was dry as he spoke.

"If it be thou, what name did I give thee? Say!" She had half-shut the door, and her hand was clutching at her breast.

"Nathoo! Oho Nathoo!" said Mowgli, for, as you know, that was the name Messua gave him when he first came to the Man-pack.

"Come, my son," she called, and Mowgli stepped into the light, and looked full at Messua, the woman who had been good to him, and whose life he had saved from the Man-pack so long before. She was older, and her hair was grey, but her eyes and her voice had not changed. Woman-like, she expected to find Mowgli where she had left him, and her eyes travelled upwards in puzzled fashion from his chest to his head, that touched the top of the door.

"My son," she stammered, and then sinking to his feet: "but it is no longer my son. It is a Godling of the woods! Aha!"

As he stood in the red light of the oil-lamp, strong, tall, and beautiful, his long black hair sweeping over his shoulders, the knife swinging at his neck, and his head crowned with a wreath of white jasmine, he might easily have been mistaken for some wild god of a jungle legend. The child half asleep on a cot sprang up and shrieked aloud with terror. Messua turned to soothe him while Mowgli stood still, looking in at the water-jars and cooking-pots, the grain-bin, and all the other human belongings that he found himself remembering so well.

"What wilt thou eat or drink?" Messua murmured. "This is all thine. We owe our lives to thee. But art thou him I called Nathoo, or a godling indeed?"

"I am Nathoo," said Mowgli, "I am very far from my own place. I saw this light and came hither. I did not know thou wast here."

"After we came to Kanhiwara," Messua said timidly, "the English would have helped us against those villagers that sought to burn us. Rememberest thou?"

"Indeed, I have not forgotten."

"But when the English Law was made ready we went to the village of those evil people, and it was no more to be found."

"That also I remember," said Mowgli, with a quiver of his nostril.

"My man, therefore, took service in the fields, and at last, for indeed he was a strong man, we hold a little land here. It is not so rich as the old village, but we do not need much—we two."

"Where is he—the man that dug in the dirt when he was afraid on that night?"

"He is dead—a year."

"And he!" Mowgli pointed to the child.

"My son that was born two Rains ago. If thou art a Godling give him the Favour of the Jungle that he may be safe among thy—thy people, as we were safe on that night."

She lifted up the child, who, forgetting his fright, reached out to play with the knife that hung on Mowgli's chest, and Mowgli put the little fingers aside very carefully.

"And if thou art Nathoo whom the tigers carried away," Messua went on choking, "he is then thy younger brother. Give him an elder brother's blessing."

"Hai mai! What do I know of the thing called a blessing? I am neither a Godling nor his brother, and—O mother, my heart is heavy in me." He shivered as he set down the child.

"Like enough," said Messua, bustling among the cooking-pots. "This comes of running about the marshes by night. Beyond question the fever has soaked thee to the marrow." Mowgli smiled a little at the idea of anything in the Jungle hurting him. "I will make a fire and thou shalt drink warm milk. Put away the jasmine wreath, the smell is heavy in so small a place."

Mowgli sat down muttering with his face in his hands. All manner of strange feelings that he had never felt before were running over him, exactly as though he had been poisoned, and he felt dizzy and a little sick. He drank the warm milk in long gulps, Messua patting him on the shoulder from time to time, one quite sure whether he were her son Nathoo of the long ago days or some wonderful Jungle being, but glad to feel that he was at least flesh and blood.

"Son," she said at last; her eyes were full of pride, "have any told thee that thou art beautiful beyond all men?"

"Hah?" said Mowgli, for naturally he had never heard anything of the kind. Messua laughed softly and happily. The look in his face was enough for her.

"I am the first, then? It is right, though it comes seldom, that a mother should tell her son these good things. Thou art very beautiful. Never have I looked upon such a man."

Mowgli twisted his head and tried to see over his own hard shoulder, and Messua laughed again so long that Mowgli, not knowing why, was forced to laugh with her, and the child ran from one to the other laughing too.

"Nay, thou must not mock thy brother," said Messua catching him to her breast. "When thou art one-half as fair we will marry thee to the youngest daughter of a king and thou shalt ride great elephants."

Mowgli could not understand one word in three of the talk here; the warm milk was taking effect on him after his forty-mile run, so he curled up and in a minute was deep asleep and Messua put the hair back from his eyes, threw a cloth over him and was happy. Jungle fashion, he slept out the rest of that night and all the next day, for his instincts, which never wholly slept, warned him there was nothing to fear. He waked at last with a hand that shook the hut, for the cloth over his face made him dream of traps; and there he stood, his hand on his knife, the sleep all heavy in his rolling eyes, ready for any fight.

Messua laughed and set the evening meal before him. There were only a few coarse cakes baked over the smoky fire, some rice, and a lump of sour preserved tamarinds—just enough to go on with till he could get to his evening kill. The smell of the dew in the marshes made him hungry and restless. He wanted to finish his spring running, but the child insisted on sitting in his arms, and Messua would have it that his long blue-black hair must be combed out. So she sang as she combed, foolish little baby songs, now calling Mowgli her son, and now begging him to give some of his jungle-power to the child. The hut door was closed, but Mowgli heard a sound he knew well, and saw Messua's jaw drop with horror as a great grey paw came under the bottom of the door, and Grey Brother outside whined a muffled and penitent whine of anxiety and fear.

"Out and wait. Ye would not come when I called," said Mowgli in jungle-talk without turning his head; and the great grey paw disappeared.

"Do not—do not bring—thy servants with thee," said Messua. "I—we have always lived at peace with the Jungle."

"It is peace," said Mowgli rising. "Think of that night on the road to Kanhiwara. There were scores of such folk before thee and behind thee. But I see that even in spring-time the Jungle people do not always forget. Mother I go."

Messua drew aside humbly—he was indeed a wood-god she thought—but as his hand was on the door the mother in her made her throw her arms round Mowgli's neck again and again.

"Come back!" she whispered. "Son or no son, come back for I love thee—look, he too grieves."

The child was crying because the man with the shiny knife was going away.

"Come back again," Messua repeated. "By night or by day this door is never shut to thee."

Mowgli's throat worked as though the cords in it were being pulled and his voice seemed to be dragged from it as he answered, "I will surely come back."

"And now," he said, as he put by the head of the fawning wolf on the threshold, "I have a little cry against thee, Grey Brother. Why came ye not all four when I called so long ago?"

"So long ago? It was but last night. I—we were singing in the Jungle the new songs, for this is the Time of New Talk. Rememberest thou?"

"Truly, truly."

"And as soon as the songs were sung," Grey Brother went on earnestly, "I followed thy trail. I ran from all the others and followed hot-foot. But, O Little Brother, what hast thou done—eating and sleeping with the Man-pack?"

"If ye had come when I called this bad never been," said Mowgli, running much faster.

"And now what is to be?" said Grey Brother.

Mowgli was just going to answer when a girl in a white cloth came down some path that led from the outskirts of the village. Grey Brother dropped out of sight at once and Mowgli backed noiselessly into a field of high springing crops. He could almost have touched her with his hand when the warm green stalks closed before his face and he disappeared like a ghost. The girl screamed for she thought she had seen a spirit, and then she gave a deep sigh. Mowgli parted the stalks with his hands and watched her till she was out of sight.

"And now I do not know," he said, sighing in his turn. "Why did ye not come when I called?"

"We follow those—we follow thee," Grey Brother mumbled, licking at Mowgli's heel. "We follow thee always except in the Time of the New Talk."

"And would ye follow me to the Man-Pack?" Mowgli whispered.

"Did I not follow thee on the night our old pack cast thee out. Who waked thee lying among the crops?"

"Ay, but again?"

"Have I not followed thee to-night.

"Ay, but again and again, and it may be again, Grey Brother?"

Grey Brother was silent. When he spoke he growled to himself, "The Black One spoke truth."

"And he said?"

"Man goes to Man at the last. Raksha our mother said——"

"So also says Akela on the night of Red Dog," Mowgli muttered.

"So also says Kaa, who is wiser than us all."

"What dost thou say, Grey Brother?"

"They cast thee out once, with bad talk. They cut thy mouth with stones. They sent Buldeo to slay thee. They would have thrown thee into the Red Flower. Thou, and not I, hast said that they are evil and senseless. Thou and not I to follow my own people—didst let in the Jungle upon them. Thou and I didst make song against them more bitter even than our song against Red Dog."

"I ask thee what thou sayest?"

They were talking as they ran. Grey Brother cantered on awhile without replying, and then he said between bound and bound as it were—"Man-cub—Master of the Jungle—Son of Raksha—Lair-brother to me—though I forget for a little while in the spring, thy trail is my trail, thy lair is my lair, thy kill is my kill, and thy death-fight is my death-fight. I speak for the Three. But what wilt thou say to the jungle?"

"That is well thought. Between the sight and the kill it is not good to wait. Go before and cry them all to the Council Rock, and I will tell them what is in my stomach. But they may not come—in the Time of New Talk they forget me."

"Hast thou, then, forgotten nothing?" snapped Grey Brother over his shoulder, as he laid himself down to gallop, and Mowgli followed thinking.

At any other season his news would have called all the Jungle together with bristling necks, but now they were busy hunting and fighting and killing and singing. From one to another Grey Brother ran, crying, "The Master of the Jungle goes back to Man. Come to the Council Rock." And the happy, eager people only answered, "He will return in the summer heats. The Rains will drive him to lair. Run and sing with us, Grey Brother.

"But the Master of the Jungle goes back to Man," Grey Brother would repeat.

"See—Yowa! Is the Time of New Talk any less sweet for that?" they would reply. So when Mowgli, heavy-hearted, came up through the well-remembered rocks to the place where he had been brought into the Pack, he found only the Four Baloo, who was nearly blind with age, and the heavy, cold blooded Kaa, coiled round Akela's empty seat.

"Thy trail ends here, then, Manling?" said Kaa; as Mowgli threw himself down, his face in his hands. (Kaa is very wise.) "Cry thy cry," he said. "We be of one blood, thou and I."

"I had rather be torn in two by Red Dog," the boy moaned. "My strength is gone from me, and it is not any poison. By night and by day I hear a double step upon my trail. When I turn my head it is as though one had hidden himself from me that instant. I go to look behind the trees and he is not there. I call and none cry again, but it as though one listened and kept back the answer. I lie down, but I do not rest. I run the spring-running but I am not made still. I bathe, but I am not made cool. The kill sickens me, but I have no heart to fight except I kill. The Red Flower is in my body, my bones are water—and—I know not what I know."

"What need of talk?" said Baloo, slowly, turning his head to where Mowgli lay. "Akela by the river said it, that Mowgli should drive Mowgli back to the Man-pack. I said it. But who listens now to Baloo! Bagheera—where is Bagheera this night?—he knows also. It is the Law."

"When we met at Cold Lairs, Manling, I knew it," said Kaa, turning a little in his mighty coils. "Man goes to Man at formed into something more useful; something tending more to improve the breed and care of horses in this country. Why not introduce prizes for people who annually go to breed and have horses in their charge? To the zemindar or other for the best yearling; to the syce for the best turned-out horse or pony; to the owner who had bred the best animal, and took like. These all are hints which I hope may be worthy of notice.

The State ball at Government House, Ganeshkind, on the 26th ult., was most imposing. The guests on arrival were received by Captain Walton, A.-D.-C., and ushered into the ball-room. About 9-30, their Excellencies Lord and Lady Sandhurst, and their Staff made a procession through the ball-room, bowing to their guests as they passed. Dancing then commenced, but the crush was so great that many took advantage of the prettily lighted tents and tennis-court, and sat out the first part of the evening. At last midnight the "Roast Beef of Old England" was played, and numbers of people resorted to the supper room, where a very recherche repast was served. After supper the ball-room began to clear and dancing was carried on with great spirit until between two and three o'clock in the morning. The floor was as usual in excellent order, and the decoration extremely pretty throughout the rooms. Heavy rain came at about 11 o'clock which rendered the tents unusable, and put a stop to any strolling about on the terrace, and—well—who knows what else it may have put a stop to. We are such creatures of circumstances. A fine, balmy night, and beautiful surroundings has indiced many a one to tell that "old, old story" which could never be mentioned on a stuffy damp night, in a muchly peopled corridor—and which is generally so much better left alone. Well, Providence was kind—and now the season is over, and we all go our different ways until next year—next year! and who can say where any of us may be in twelve months' time?

"Good-bye to the season!—another
Will come, with its trifles and toys,
And hurry away like its brother.
In sunshine, and odour, and noise.
Will it come with a rose or a briar?
Will it come with a blessing or curse?
Will its locusts be lower or higher?
Will its morals be better or worse?
Will it find me grown thinner or fatter,
Or fonder of wrong or of right,
Or married,—or buried?—no matter:
Good night to the season—good night!"

THE MUTINOUS TROOPS AT GOA.

Our Goa correspondent writes:—On the 25th September, five sepoys out of the guard doing duty at Margaum Jail, and three others guarding the provincial treasury at Margaum, deserted their posts and joined the mutineers. Their places have been filled up by new recruits. The new Military organisation has been published in the Official Boletim. It gives the desired increase in the wages to soldiers going to Africa. They are to be paid at reis fortes, which will give about Rs. 30 per month. If the deserters had grounded their resistance to go to Africa solely on matters of pay, this was indeed a good opportunity for them to yield to the Government terms, and accept the proposal of foreign service. Since the revolt three Council meetings have been held, but the result has been kept strictly secret. A deputation, consisting of Count of Mahem, Viscount of Bardez, and Mr. Fernando da Cunha, left Pangim on the 29th September, and proceeded to Sanquelim. The ringleaders met them at a distance. The deputation endeavoured to induce the deserters to lay down their arms and return to the barracks; but they refused to do so, however, unless a free pardon, and promise not to be sent to Africa, were given them. The deputation was not empowered to accord this assurance, and had therefore to return without any satisfactory result. The deserters have not yet changed their pacific attitude. Some of them go now and then to the Casuals of Sanquelim for making ordinary purchases, and convey communications to their Adjutant. Ordinarily they are dressed in their dhotars, but they do not leave off their belt and sword. The allowance of Rs. 50 given to the deserters has been suspended by the local Government, and they are cast-fallen on that account. While the Vicar of Valpay was at Pangim lately, some Christian soldiers came to hear mass, and they requested the Vicar to intercede on their behalf with the Governor-General to obtain for them pardon, and an assurance that they will not be sent to Mozambique. The Vicar exhorted them to return to their barracks, pointing out to them that they had sworn to defend the National Flag under all circumstances. Their duty was that of obedience to the military orders. The Vicar asked them not to do harm to their fellow-citizens, and the soldiers responded that their intention was to molest no one. Indeed, they swore to that effect before the image of "Our Lady of [illegible]," that their peaceful behaviour would be continued so that Government might have every proof of their good intention. The Vicar subsequently had an audience with his Excellency the Governor-General, the result of which does not appear to have been satisfactory. Mr. Francisco Correia de Noronha, the Administrator of Sanquelim, has brought his family to Pangim, and has had a long audience with the Governor-General. He left for Sanquelim on the 28th September. Captain Rocha, A.-D.-C.-in-Waiting to his Excellency the Governor-General, has left for Bombay. It is said that he is proceeding to Portugal direct, while others assert that he has been sent to Bombay with some special mission. The situation is just the same as it was a week ago. The Elephanta rain, which has fallen for three days copiously, will cause great inconvenience to the deserters, as they have not sufficient cloth or shelter for so large a number of persons. The attitude of the Governor-General appears to be uncompromising, and probably nothing will be done until the arrival of the Vasco de Gama, when Government will try to bring the deserters to their senses.

REMEDIES FOR SNAKE-BITES.

The Government of Bombay have issued a resolution regarding a little work which Mr. V. G. Chiplonkar has published in two parts in Marathi, containing the results of researches made by learned inquirers into the subject of snake-bite. The work, if not perfect, is a most useful one, being the result of a careful and prolonged study of the subject. It contains a general description of the constitution of snakes, their habits, modes of poisoning them, diagnosis of venomous and innocuous bites, nature and properties of venom, and its antidotes. The second part contains coloured diagrams of the different species of venomous snakes, a scientific description of their habits, the nature of their venom, and the mode of applying antidotes. The Government of Bombay have recommended the book as likely to prove suitable for colleges, schools, and libraries and for school prizes, and they have invited the attention of Heads of Departments thereto. His Highness the Gaekwar of Baroda has purchased a large number of books for distribution. At a time when the subject of snake-bite in India attracts so much attention the book should be heartily welcomed by the public.

SPORTS AT RAJPIPLA.

(FROM AN OCCASIONAL CORRESPONDENT.)

Sports were held at Nandod, on Monday and Tuesday last, under the patronage of Colonel F. W. Snell, Administrator of the Rajpipla State. On both the days H. H. the Raja with all his Kumars, as also the principal officers of the State, respectable citizens of Nandod, and the Vassya of Saghara were present. Among the ladies who graced the company were Mrs. Snell, Mrs. Clabby, Mrs. Sykes and Mrs. Jefferies. The sports were witnessed by the present from a large shamiana. Arrangements for the refreshment of the guests (both European and native) were not forgotten, and Mrs. Clabby did all she could to meet their requirements.

The second day's programme having been gone through, the committee requested Mrs. Snell to give away the prizes, on the conclusion of which Colonel Snell rose and delivered the following speech:—"Your Highness, Shriar Shri, Ladies and Gentlemen,—Mrs. Snell and I thoroughly appreciate the compliment which you have paid her in asking her to distribute the prizes this evening, and I can assure you it has afforded her much pleasure in complying with your request. But we one and all would be wanting in proper feeling if we did not acknowledge the hard work which Mrs. and Mr. Clabby have performed in view to our enjoyment. On Mrs. Clabby has devolved the commissariat arrangement, and I am sure, you will all admit, that they have been perfect. As for Mr. Clabby he has not scared himself in order that the entertainments might be a success. Mr. Sykes, Mr. Jefferies, Dr. Patel, Mr. Motabhai and Mr. Gunwantram have also been indefatigable in their endeavours to assist Mr. Clabby in successfully carrying out his somewhat ambitious programme. The men in the Risala, the Paltan, and the Police, take a keen interest in all these manly sports, but as all cannot be successful, I have much pleasure in giving twenty rupees to be distributed among those who have failed to obtain prizes, and I wish them better luck next year. In conclusion, I cannot but remark that these gatherings should be encouraged, as they tend to bring the Administration into touch with the people."

The speech being over, these assembled gave three cheers for Colonel and Mrs. Snell.

Mr. K. B. Dhanjishawjh came forward and thanked the patron and Mrs. Snell for having performed their functions in such an admirable manner. Three enthusiastic cheers were then given for Mrs. Snell and three more for Colonel Snell.

Before the company dispersed, cheers for Mr. and Mrs. Clabby were most enthusiastically responded to. The members of the committee were not in sight of, and at a distance of Colonel Snell, cheers for them were also given.

FLORILINE.—FOR THE TEETH AND BREATH.—A few drops of the liquid "Floriline" sprinkled on a wet tooth-brush produces a pleasant lather, which thoroughly cleanses the teeth from all parasites or impurities, hardens the gums, prevents tartar, stops decay, gives to the teeth a peculiar pearly whiteness and a delightful fragrance to the breath. It removes all unpleasant odour arising from decayed teeth or tobacco smoke. The Fragrant Floriline, being composed of parts of honey and sweet herbs, is delicious to the taste, and the greatest toilet discovery of the age. Price 2s. 6d., of all Chemists and Perfumers. THE RELIGIOUS RIOTS IN JALAUN.

All the criminal appeals arising out of the religious riots at Konch, in the District of Jalaun, were heard by Mr. F. W. Fox, C.S., the Sessions Judge of Jhansi, on the same day. All the five Hindus who were convicted by the District Magistrate of Jalaun had preferred appeals, and three out of the five Mahomedans convicted had also done the same. The facts of the case have already appeared in the "Pioneer" of the 29th of September. The vakil who appeared for the Hindus contended that the learned Magistrate's order was bad both in fact and in law, inasmuch as certain statements have been freely referred to by the judgment which were not legally available as evidence, and the evidence recorded in one case has been made the evidence in the cross-case without the witnesses being again examined-in-chief in the presence of the accused. The law-pandit vakil then submitted that no case had been made out on the merits against the Hindu appellants, and criticised the evidence against each of his clients in considerable detail. He submitted that no common object had been shown or proved, and therefore Section 147, I. P. C., was in every way inapplicable to the facts and circumstances of the case. On behalf of the Mahomedans it was urged that the Magistrate having found that the Hindus were the aggressors, all that they had done was done in the exercise of the right of private defence. The Hindus having unjustifiably taken offence at the "tazias" being placed at the Rohal Bazaar and commenced the assault, the Mahomedans did all that they have been found to have done to protect themselves from the fury of the Hindu mob. The learned Judge took time to consider his judgment and delivered it on a subsequent day. In the case of the Mahomedans, he acquitted Umar who was one of the appellan s, because evidence against him was discrepant. He upheld the conviction of the other seven against the Mahomedan appellants, but not under Section 147, I. P. C. He found that the right of private defence had be n materially exceeded by the Mahomedans, and he thought that the provocations should be entered under Sections 160 and 323 of the Indian Penal Code, which were more applicable to the facts of the case. In the case of the Hindu appellants he declined to do more than he proceed to take, to express any opinion whatever on the merits. It did not appear from the record in what capacity the Tahsildar made his inquiry prior to the commencement of the proceedings in Court. If he did it merely as an officer of Police the statements made before him could not be referred against the accused, though they might be used in their favour. If he did make the inquiry as an executive officer but not sitting judicially to try the case, those statements could not be proved merely by tendering the pieces of paper on which they were written, as the Tahsildar then would be no better than a private person, and the statements before him must be legally proved before being admitted in evidence. If he did act as a judicial officer, there was no action in the Criminal Procedure Code which authorised his action. The learned Judge, therefore, requested the District Magistrate of Jalaun to be good enough to state in what capacity the said Tahsildar did make the inquiry in question. The Magistrate had examined certain witnesses in the cross case against the Mahomedans, and when the same witnesses were placed in the box against the Hindus the Magistrate made a note "examination-in-chief as in the cross-case" and then proceeded to record the cross-examination. The learned Judge pointed out that no consent can make that evidence which was not recorded in the presence of the accused, and he declined to refer to the other record to find out what the witnesses had said against the Hindu accused. These irregularities vitiated the trial and made further proceedings necessary. The learned Judge, therefore, directed the District Magistrate to take the evidence of these four witnesses afresh in the presence of the accused, giving them liberty to cross examine them. When this had been done the record was to be returned to the learned Judge who would then proceed to dispose of the appeal on the merits. The evidence ordered by the Judge has just been taken by Mr. C. D. Steel, C. S., the convicting Magistrate, and the record re-submitted to the District Judge. The appeal will probably come on for final disposal in the latter half of October.

THE INDORE MINISTER.

Mr. Bedarkar's return to Indore, says a correspondent, has been misinterpreted. The Government Resolution granting him permission to revert to the British service has been seen in a printed form by many Indore officers. We are also assured that there is no foundation in fact for the rumour that the Viceroy has asked the Maharajah to introduce reforms with the help of this Minister. On the contrary, there is every reason to believe that Mr. Bedarkar's solicitude in taking advantage of the Maharajah's formal courtesy in recalling him has its origin in his unwillingness to accept his permanent post of Rs. 600 a month in contravention of his salary of Rs. 2,500 with allowances. He has filled up his term for retirement, but wants a few months to obtain the average which would give him Rs. 5,000 a year. He felt persona ingrata as they are at present, and manufacturers are finding it difficult to obtain adequate supplies of yarns and weffs, even though they offer higher prices, and the rate per lb. for yarns is now 6d. more than it was in May and June.

Mr. Hare has been communicating to an interviewer at Birmingham some sensible views on the old subject of whether it is desirable to have an authoritative school of acting. The admirable impersonator of Benjamin Goldfinch and the Duke of St. Olpherts is of opinion that, given the artistic temperament, the science of the actor's art stands on the same footing as the technic of music or painting. If the elements were systematically taught, men and women of talent, he observes, would be able to go on the stage armed with the confidence that only comes of knowledge. But the uninitiated of to-day, unable to walk gracefully, ignorant how to bear themselves properly, and utterly unable to manage there voices, are left to learn this rudimentary lore of the craft in the full blaze of theatre. Is it not obvious, he asks that the experience of men like Samson and Rozzier, Coquelin and Got, must be of the greatest possible value to a beginner? It is very well to have the capacity so feel, but what will it avail a man if he does not know how to make use of the machinary of expression, gesture, and intonation, by which feeling is conveyed to others? On the stage alone (says Mr. Hare) do people challenge criticism in their art before they have grasped its elements.

According to French law the conviction of a poacher carries with it the confiscation of his weapon. In this fact is to be sought the explanation of a curious scene which was witnessed at Angouleme a few days ago. It appears that guns so confiscated may be redeemed by the owners on payment of 50 francs. They are certainly dear at the price, for in the first place the poacher seldom seeks to recover his property, and secondly they are ultimately disposed of by the Government at periodical sales held for the purpose, at an average rate of four francs apiece. Whether this be so or not, the latter fact has formed the subject of many protests on the part of the gunmakers, who declare that their trade interests are damaged. After representations to the Government extending over many years, without obtaining redress, they have at last had recourse to sterner measures. For some time past the batches of antiquated weapons offered at the above mentioned sales in the Charente have been bought up by the armourers of Angouleme, and a sufficient quantity having been collected, they were publicly destroyed in the market place of that town, to the amusement of a large crowd.

The Figaro has collected some opinions of men of light and leading about the proposed exhibition in Paris in 1900. Aurelien Scholl calls it a six months' Sunday. Why not a six months' Bank Holiday? Pierre Veron says "the ugliest invention of the age is the Universal Exhibition." Philibert Audibert and Andre Theuriet share his opinion; they lift up their voices against the vandalism of M. Picard's plan, which involves the mutilation of the Champs-Elysees. M. Barres predicts that the exhibition calumalia of 1900 will be the last. The country is sick of exhibitions, which are meant merely to throw dust in its eyes and open a field for jobbery. M. Arsene Houssay did not stir for nothing at the feet of Victor Hugo. He calls universal exhibitions "the ultime ratio of the fraternity of peoples, and the ultimate expression of art. Why turn down into night by sweeping off the faces of the eye and mind?"

NEWS OF THE DAY.

News has at last been received of the four Chitral prisoners who escaped from Dharmsala. They were last seen at a Mahomedan village named Nurpur, between Kangra and Pathankote, where they left one of their number behind. This man, who is said to be Sher Afzul's elder brother, is very old and infirm, and is now again in custody. It is probable that the other three will soon be captured.

The quantity of rice shipped from Rangoon from 1st January to 18th September, 1895, was 703,167 tons, as against 766,643 tons during the same period in 1894. The falling off has chiefly been in the amount shipped to India, which amounted to only 50,493 tons, as against 138,618 tons in 1894. The shipments to the Straits and China show an increase, rising from 171,790 in 1894 to 200,588 in 1895.

All hope that Mr. Mummery and the Gurkhas with him might possibly have escaped on Nanga Parbat, has now been abandoned. The search party had to return owing to the heavy snowfall.

The Parsee Baronet Cricket Club are sending a team to Simla to play the local eleven on the 10th, 11th and 12th instant. The Parsees will be much stronger than last year, when the match was drawn.

Lord Wenlock's last tour before laying down the reins of Government in Madras will be signalized by the opening of the great works on the Periyar river and also the new waterworks at Tanjore.

Owing to the smallness of the starting declarations for the races fixed for Wednesday at Simla, it has been decided to abandon the original meeting. A fresh prospectus has been issued, and there will be one day's racing only, namely, on Saturday.

Rather a deep cyclonic storm struck the coast near False Point, Orissa, on Monday. The trajectory of the storm will probably be to the North-West or North-North-West, and hence rain is probable in the East of the North-West Provinces with strong winds.

Rumours have gained currency that the Legal Practitioners Bill is not to be proceeded with. As it stands, the Bill, as we have said, is a piece of mischief legislation; but there is no foundation for the report that it is to be abandoned. As a matter of fact the intention is that it be passed during the Calcutta session.

A Committee, consisting of General Stedman, Colonel Hobday (Commissary-General, Punjab Command) and Major Deane, will meet at Nowshera to-day, to settle the arrangements, under which the Kaka Khel will carry all supplies for the Malakand and Chakdarah garrisons. These tribesmen are quite prepared to guarantee the safety of all convoys without escort, their headmen having great influence across the border.

For some time the excise officers of Rangoon have been watching parcels received by post from Madras owing to a suspicion that ganja was being sent in considerable quantities from Madras to Rangoon through the post. A few weeks ago a parcel, posted in Triplicane, was delivered at a native house in 34th Street, in Rangoon, and the Excise officer who was on the watch immediately seized the parcel, demanding that the person to whom it was addressed should be pointed out to him. Naturally this person could not be found, and the parcel which contained ganja was confiscated. Since that date no fewer than seven similar parcels of the contraband drug have been posted by the anonymous person in Triplicane to the unknown man in 34th Street, Rangoon, but the people in the house have refused to take delivery of the parcels which are now lying in the dead letter office.

The Russian Transport Company's steamer Maria has just been chartered at Odessa to carry, in three journeys, 5,000 Mohammedan emigrants from the Caucasus to Turkey. These emigrants will be all embarked at Novorossisk and landed at Ismid, near Constantinople.

A sort of scare has been occasioned among New York playgoers by the official statement that there are eighteen places of amusement in that city which have not complied with the requisite sanitary condition. The inquiry of which this is the result was set on foot by the Superintendent Constable of Police in consequence of the recent fall of a large building in New York. The eighteen establishments are not all theatres, but the determination of the Mayor not to publish the list—a course which he thinks would be "unfair"—has naturally created a general alarm. This, as one commentator pertinently observes, is decidedly "unfair" to those theatres and music-halls which are reasonably safe.

To be struck by lightning and live to describe the sensation is an experience accorded to few. Signalman John Breig, of the Brooklyn Elevated Railway, has passed through it during the recent storms, and, having entirely recovered, has supplied an account of the occurrence. He writes: "Just as I was in the act of pressing the signal button, a red-hot shooting pain went up my right arm, and I fell backwards. For just a second, although it seemed like an hour, pains, as if from red-hot needles, passed all through me. I didn't remember anything else until I found myself in my own bed at home." Except for a little weakness, Breig adds that he is now as well as ever.

A correspondent writes from Normandy: "If the visit of our Lord Mayor to Bordeaux in civic state does not evoke the enthusiasm elicited two years ago by the Russian fleet, French people are almost as much interested. I was talking to a farmer near Amiens, and remarked that the state carriage of the Lord Mayor would greatly interest the little street boys of Bordeaux. My interlocutor replied with a smile: 'And not the little street boys only; I myself am off south, hoping to catch a sight of the Lord Mayor and his caroche.' Here, then, was a practical middle-aged farmer paying us the compliment of travelling four hundred and sixty miles in order to see our great London magistrate and his insignia of office. It will be a thousand pities, by the way, if an official invitation to the French President is not forthcoming at this most propitious moment, when both nations would so heartily welcome it."

In illustration of the revival in the Yorkshire woollen trade, "The Leeds Mercury" cites some interesting facts. The revival is more apparent in the production of the higher class of goods known as worsteds than in that known as woolleus. Nevertheless, the demand for woollen fabrics is stated to be now considerably larger than it was a few months ago, and in not a few cases better terms are being obtained by the manufacturers. Much has been heard of late of the strong competition which our woollen manufacturers have to meet at the hands of French and German producers. But it is mentioned as a noteworthy fact that at present a very considerable proportion of the orders booked by local firms has come from France and Germany. One firm stated that their largest customer was a German house, that its orders in bulk were well-nigh double that of last sea on, and that this increase characterised the German requirements generally, so far as this firm was concerned. Meanwhile, the wool market continues to rise. Spinners, it is stated, have never been so busy as they are at present, and manufacturers are finding it difficult to obtain adequate supplies of yarns and wefts, even though they offer higher prices, and the rate per lb. for yarns is now 6d. more than it was in May and June.

THE BRITISH ASSOCIATION.

A SURVEY OF SCIENTIFIC PROGRESS SINCE 1831.

The British Association opened its sixty-fifth annual meeting, at Ipswich, on Sept. 11. In the absence of Lord Salisbury, the retiring President, the formal ceremony of handing over the presidency of the year to Sir Douglas Galton as the first general meeting, held in the Public Hall in the evening, was undertaken by Lord Kelvin. The new President then delivered his address, which was one of the least technical heard for many years. It was largely historical. Sir Douglas Galton referred in feeling terms to the death of the late Professor Huxley, and expressed the debt which the Association owed to him for the assistance which he rendered in the promotion of science. Huxley was pre-eminently qualified to assist in sweeping away the obstruction by dogmatic authority, which in the early days of the Association fettered progress in certain branches of science. For, whilst he was an eminent leader in biological research, his intellectual power, his original and intrepid mind, his vigorous and masculine English, made him a writer who explained the deepest subject with transparent clearness. And as a speaker his lucid and forcible style was adorned with ample and effective illustration in the lecture room; and his energy and wealth of argument in a more public arena largely helped to win the battle of evolution, and to secure the right to discuss questions of religion and science without fear and without favour:—

After giving a brief resume of the history of the institution and describing the condition of certain sciences at the date of its formation in 1831, the President went on to deal with the advancement which has been made since then. As regarded geography, in 1831, the Ordnance Survey had only published the one-inch map for the Southern portion of England, and the great triangulation of the kingdom was still incomplete. In 1834 the Association urged upon the Government the fact that scientists were greatly impeded in their researches by the absence of those accurate data which now lie ready to their hands for the measurement of length, surface, and altitude. The first decade of the Association was coincident with a considerable development of geographical research, at the North Pole, the Antarctic regions, and in connection with the question of an alternative route to India by means of a communication between the Mediterranean and the Persian Gulf. Referring to African exploration, he paid a tribute to the memory of the late Mr. Joseph Thomson, whose extensive, accurate, and trustworthy observations, he said, added much to our knowledge of Africa. In the field of physical science, it might be said that the applications of electricity to the uses of man had grown up side by side with the British Association. Meteorology had also made great strides, England taking the lead in rainfall observations. In 1860 the British rainfall system was organised by Mr. G. J. Symons, with 178 observers. Now there were over 3000 observers. The storm warnings issued under the Meteorological Committee might be said to have had their origin in the terrible storm which broke over the Black Sea during the Crimean War, on Nov. 27, 1855. Leverrier traced the progress of that storm, and seeing how its path could have been reported in advance by the electric telegraph, he proposed to establish observing stations which should report to the coasts the probability of the occurrence of a storm. Leverrier communicated with Airy, and the Government authorised Admiral Fitzroy to make tentative arrangements in this country. The idea was also adopted on the continent, and now there were few civilised countries north or south of the equator without a system of storm warning. In anthropology the impulse given by Charles Darwin had been fruitful in leading others to consider whether the same principle of evolution might not have governed the moral as well as the material progress of the human race. Speaking of bacteriology he said that Sir Joseph Lister's adoption, in 1865, of the antiseptic system of the treatment of wounds formed a landmark in the science of surgery, and enabled surgeons to perform operations never before dreamt of. The science of bacteriology was leading to the imposition of stringent rules for the isolation of infectious diseases, and to the disinfection of materials which had been in contact with the sufferer. The study of bacteriology had shown that although some microbes might be the accompaniments of disease, yet we owed it to the operation of others that the refuse caused by the cessation of animal and vegetable life was reconverted into food for fresh generations of plants and animals. These considerations had formed a point of meeting where the biologist, the chemist, the physicist, and the statistician united with the sanitary engineer in the application of the science of preventive medicine. He next proceeded to deal with engineering and mechanical science. Great as was the advance made by the locomotive of George Stephenson, the earlier engines were only toys compared with the compound engines of to-day used for railways, for ships, and for the production of electricity. The improvements in the production of iron, combined with the developed steam-engine, had completely altered the conditions of our commercial intercourse on land; whilst the changes caused by the effects of these improvements in ship-building, and on the ocean carrying trade, had been, if anything, still more remarked. At the foundation of the Association all ocean ships were built by hand, of wood, propelled by sails and manœuvred by manual labour; the material limited their length, which did not often exceed 100 feet, and the number of English ships of over 500 tons burden was comparatively small. In the modern ships steam power took the place of manual labour. It rolled the plates of which the ship was constructed, bent them to the required shape, cut, drilled, and riveted them in their place. It weighed the anchor, it propelled the vessel in spite of winds or currents, it steered, ventilated, and lighted her when on the ocean; it took the cargo on board and discharged it on arrival.

Other improvements to which he referred were in the manufacture of ordnance, shot, shell, and ammunition. In other countries reliance for the aid of scientific research was placed largely upon the State. England had made marvellous advances by means of voluntary effort, and it would be unfortunate if by any change voluntary effort were fettered by State control. Every year the field of usefulness of the Association was widening, and he had full confidence that its future records would chronicle still greater progress than that already achieved, and that the British nation would maintain its leading position amongst the nations of the world, if it would energetically continue its voluntary efforts to promote research, supplemented by that additional help from the Government which ought never to be withheld when a clear case of scientific utility was established.

A PAINFUL INCIDENT.

When the President had been reading about an hour (says the Times) his voice began to fail. By a succession of obvious efforts he raised it several times, but, finally, after reading the words, "The reception of warlike stores," he came to a stop. A pause of three or four minutes ensued. Sir Douglas was assisted by Sir Jhon Evans, the treasurer of the Association, and by the Mayor of Ipswich, Mr. J. H. Barbier, a member of the medical profession, though not in practice. The President was requested to allow the remainder of the address to be read for him, but, recovering partially, he made another effort to proceed. He had read but a few sentences when his voice and strength failed him. Sir John Evans was about to commence reading when Dr. John Ince, retired surgeon of the Indian army, rose in the body of the hall and said it would be most consonant with the feelings of the audience that the meeting should now terminate. They could listen only with feelings of pain, knowing the condition of their esteemed president. Sir John Evans, however, proceeded to read the conclusion of the address, and Sir Douglas was conducted to the chair. The President had recovered sufficiently at the close to acknowledge briefly a vote of thanks which was awarded to him.

THE EXPLORATION OF THE ANTARCTIC SEA.

Prof. E. A. Schafer, F. R. S., was elected general secretary. Sir W. H. Flower was chosen to represent the Association at the International Congress of Zoology at Leyden. Although the council expressed sympathy with and approval of the effort being made by the Royal Geographical Society to organise an expedition for the exploration of the Antarctic Sea, they were unable to take any practical part in the work. The treasurer's statement showed that there was a balance in hand of £1621 19s. 11d., and that after the payment of £277 15s. 5d., grants made at Oxford last year.

A ROYAL BETROTHAL.

The betrothal of Prince Ernest of Hohenlohe-Langenburg, a grandson of the Queen's half-sister, to the Princess Alexandra of Saxe-Coburg-Gotha, took place, on Sept. 9, at the castle of Rosenau. The Prince, who was born in September, 1863, is the only son of the Prince of Hohenlohe-Langenburg (who owns very large estates in Wurtemburg, Coburg, and other parts of Germany) by his marriage with a daughter of the late Margrave William of Badden, Prince Ernest, who was for some years attached to the German Embassy in London, has held an important post at Strasburg since his father was appointed to be Governor-General of Alsace-Lorraine. He is a first cousin of the German Emperor. One of his sisters was married in 1884 to the Hereditary Prince of Reuss, and the other became the wife of the Hereditary Prince of Leiningen about a year ago. The Prince of Hohen-ohe-Langenburg is the son of Princess Feodore of Leiningen, the Queen's half-sister, who was the only daughter of the Duchess of Kent by her first marriage with Emich, Prince of Leiningen. Princess Feodore died in 1872. Princess Alexandra, who is the third daughter of the Duke and Duchess of Coburg, was born in September, 1878. The wedding is to take place at Coburg in April next. The "Daily Graphic" observes:—

Englishmen of all casses will received with gratification the news of the betrothal of a daughter of the Prince whom we still best recognise under his title of Duke of Edinburgh to the hereditary Prince of Hohenlorae Langenburg. The fact that the Duke has become a foreign Prince cannot efface our recollections of his parentage or of his long and honourable connection with the most popular of our Services. The young Princess, who, if we may mention so delicate a matter, I only seventeen years of age, has passed a great part of her life among us, while her future husband, who is just fifteen years her senior, is well and favourably known in English society. The match is a suitable one in every respect. We may refer without impertinence to the more than considerable wealth which the Princess is likely to inherit, as well as to her connection with the English and Russian Imperial families. On the other hand,—the Prince comes of a race distinguished alike by position and intellect, and ranks high amongst that proud cast of castes—the territorial nobility of Germany. We are sure that the loyal and heartfelt congratulations of the nation will go out to Her Majesty's grandchild and her husband-elect.

Rowlands Kalydon is a most delightfully cooling, soothing, healing, refreshing, and emollient milk for the skin. It prevents and removes freckles tan, sunburn, scorches and heats stings of insects cures prickly heat, &c.; renders the skin soft and delicate, and produces a clear and healthy complexion. It is warranted free from any poisonous ingredients. Ask any dealer in perfumery, for Rowlands' Kalydon, and avoid poisonous and worthless imitations.

FEMININE FACTS AND FANCIES.

French ladies are tired of the monotonous smell of some of the most familiar blooms. Accordingly an ingenious person is engaged in producing a number of brand-new perfumes, into which the flowers may be dipped.

The six richest women millionaires in the world are Senora Isidora Cousino (forty millions sterling); Hetty Green (ten millions); Baroness Burdett-Coutts (four millions); Mme. Barrios (three millions); Mary Garrett (two millions); Mrs Woleska (two millions).

The Prince of Wales had a talk lately with a popular authoress beside whom he sat at supper at a German watering-place. At the name of Zola, the lady protested that she had never read his works. "I am pleased to hear that," said H. R. H.; "I never like my ladyfriends to read Zola."

It is marvellous to see the change in a room that the merest touches of colour will make. A lady says:—"If you take half a dozen sticks of bright vermillion sealing-wax, and artfully dispose them in a room—a good deal, of course, depends upon their disposition—you will be perfectly astonished at their decorative value, and, unless you are in the secret, be unable to find out how such richness and brilliancy has been given to a common-place apartment.

The Queens aversion to the employment of electricity as a motive power is (writes a correspondent) a further evidence of Her Majesty's curious conservatism in not viewering with immediate favour new adaptations of the forces of nature. Thus the Queen in early life was highly apprehensive of travelling by rail and although Her Majesty is now quite at her ease in a long railway journey, she, unlike the Prince Consort, who took immediately to conveyances by steam, preferred for many years to travel by road between Windsor and London.

It may not be generally known that local souvenirs sold in this country are now to a large extent made abroad. A correspondent of a Bristol paper, who has been spending a holiday in Scotland, say that in Edinburgh he wished to make a few purchases for the children. "In almost every case," he writes, "we found that the articles—even photographs of scenery—were made in Germany or France; and one of the foreign makers had placed on one of the articles words intimating that it was a present from Edinborough.""

BILE-LADEN BLOOD.

HEALTHY BILE.

When the Liver is not making Healthy Bile, or insufficient quantity, the Blood becomes impure, the groundwork of disease, and produces Constipation, Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Headaches, Moping, Melancholy, Gout, Rheumatism, and nearly every form of disease.

ENO'S "FRUIT SALT"

is the simplest and best remedy yet introduced. It prevents Diarrhœa, and removes it in the early stages.

ENO'S "FRUIT SALT"

assists the functions of the LIVER, BOWELS, SKIN, and KIDNEYS by Natural Means; thus the Blood is freed from POISONOUS or other HURTFUL MATTERS. It is impossible to overstate its great value. THERE IS NO DOUBT that, where it has been taken in the earliest stages of a disease, it has, in innumerable instances, PREVENTED a SEVERE ILLNESS. Without such a simple precaution, the JEOPARDY of LIFE is IMMENSELY INCREASED.

SCARLET FEVER, PYÆMIA, ERYSIPELAS, MEASLES, GANGRENE, and almost every mentionable Disease.—I have been a nurse for upwards of ten years, and in that time have nursed cases of scarlet fever, pyæmia, erysipelas, measles, gangrene, cancer, and almost every mentionable disease. During the whole time I have not been ill myself for a single day, and this I attribute in a great measure to the use of ENO'S FRUIT SALT, which has kept my blood in a pure state. I recommended it to all my patients during convalescence. Its value as a means of health cannot be overestimated.—A PROFESSIONAL NURSE. "April 21st, 1894."

EASTERN EQUATORIAL AFRICA.

Cavendish Square, W., October 26, 1894.

DEAR SIR,—I have recently returned from Eastern Equatorial Africa, where I lived for upwards of 12 years.

I enjoyed phenomenal health, and in my opinion it was undoubtedly owing to the daily use of your "Fruit Salt," the beneficial qualities of which I had previously found in England. I have no hesitation in saying that my life was preserved by it.

On my way home I had a severe attack of intermittent fever, the sea was rough, and the ship's medical attendant was (as that officer usually is) prostrate with "mal de mer," and unable to attend to anyone. The fever gained and gained on me, but after a few doses of ENO'S "FRUIT SALT" I at last fell into a refreshing sleep, and found on awakening that the thirst had gone, and long before I had arrived at Aden was as well as I had ever been in my life.

I am, dear Sir, Yours truly, ANGLO-AFRICAN.

CAUTION.—Examine each Bottle and see the capsule is marked "ENO'S 'FRUIT SALT.'" without you have been imposed on by a worthless imitation. Prepared only at ENO'S "FRUIT SALT" WORKS, LONDON S.E. By J. C. ENO'S PATENT.

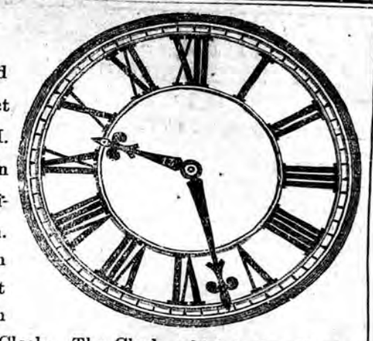
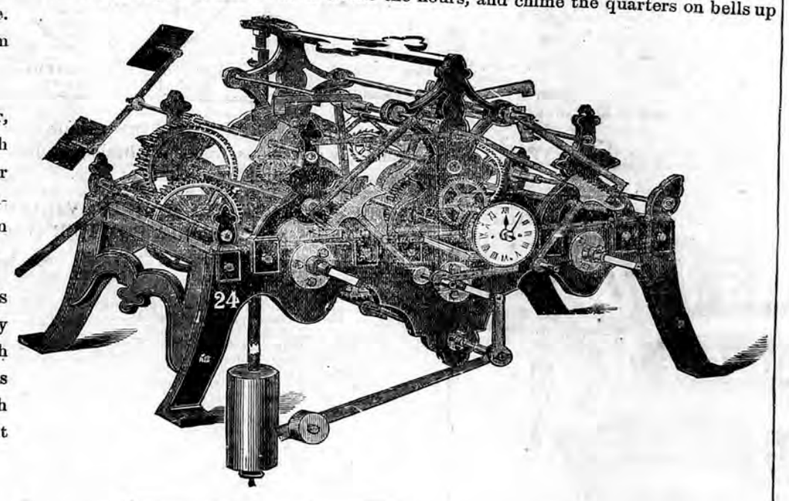
TOWER AND TURRET CLOCKS.



The Illustration illustrates the handsome CLOCK TOWER, erected by the joint subscriptions of the Hindus and Mahomedans of the district of Aligarh, and has been named after the local Collector, Mr. J. H. Harrison, I.C.S. The Tower is a lofty and extremely handsome building in the Gothic Style, built in the main of brick, but with facings of admirably carved stone. The Clock has four opal dials of 6 feet diameter each. There is a dead beat escapement, and all the wheels are of best gun metal. The four sets of gilt hands are balanced inside. The weight of the bells is 9 cwts. 3 qrs. 9 lbs., and the Clock chimes the quarters on two bells, and strikes the hours on a third bell. It is an eight-day Clock. The Clock, which is the gift of a local native magnate, was set up and supplied by ourselves. We have now on hand, for immediate supply, an exactly similar Clock. Every part of which has been manufactured in England. The price is Rs 5,500.

We manufacture Tower Clocks up to any size desired, with one, two or four dials from 3 feet to 20 feet in diameter, which can be illuminated, if required, and made to strike the hours, and chime the quarters on bells up to any weight and calibre. Prices ranging from Rs. 750 to Rs. 10,000.



We also make smaller, lighter, silent Clocks, with 3 feet dial, suitable for fixing over stables or entrance gateways from Rs. 450 to Rs. 750.

Enquiries and orders should be accompanied by a plan and elevation, with notes of all measurements relating to the part such as thickness of wall, height of chamber space, &c.

"CARLTON" WHISKEY.

ELEVEN YEARS OLD & FIVE YEARS OLD

GOLD MEDAL CALCUTTA EXHIBITION, 1883-84.

THESE GRAND OLD SCOTCH WHISKIES are shipped only by RICHARD MATHEWS AND COMPANY, of London and Inverness, who are sole possessors of the Brand "CARLTON." They are distilled from the finest Highland Malt only, are in every respect equal to the Best Cognac Brandy and guaranteed to be entirely free from Fusil Oil or other noxious impurities.

TO R. MATHEWS & COMPANY. LABORATORY, ROYAL POLYTECHNIC INSTITUTION. March 19th, 1878.

This is to certify that I have carefully Analysed a sample of the "CARLTON WHISKEY," I find it to be a very old and pure Spirit, perfectly free from Fusil Oil, or any other deleterious substance. In my opinion this Whiskey is of a very high character. Berner's College, EDWARD V. GARDNER, F.A.S., M.S.A., London. Professor of Chemistry.

CAUTION.—It has come to the knowledge of the Shippers of the "CARLTON WHISKEYS, that the empty Bottles have been dishonestly refilled with the poisonous trash very often sold in India under the name of Whiskey, this is therefore to caution consumers to CAREFULLY EXAMINE the CORKS and CAPSULES to see they have not been tampered with; also that the Corks, Capsules and Labels are branded with their Trade Mark.

Sold Everywhere. Wholesale of all Wholesale Houses.

Dr. Bright's Phosphodyne

Is a marvellous medicine for renovating impaired and broken-down constitutions. It operates on the system without exciting care or thought upon the individual as to the process. It moves the lungs, liver, kidney, stomach and intestines, with a harmony vigour, yet, mildness unparalleled in medicine.

Dr. Bright's Phosphodyne

Gives back to the human structure, in a suitable form, the phosphoric or animating element of life, which has been wasted, and at once imparts new energy and life to the enfeebled constitution.

Dr. Bright's Phosphodyne

Is patronised by Aristocracy and the Elite, extensively used in the Army and Navy, and highly recommended by the leading Medical Practitioners.

CAUTION.—DR. BRIGHT'S PHOSPHODYNE.

KOKO FOR THE HAIR

ENSURES MAGNIFICENT TRESSES.

Koko for the Hair is a tonic, cleansing, invigorating preparation, causes the hair to grow luxuriantly, keeps it soft and pliant, imparts to it the lustre and freshness of youth, eradicates dandruff, prevents hair from falling, is the most cleanly of all hair preparations, and is perfectly harmless. It is particularly cooling and refreshing, and specially adapted for a hot climate.

CHEMICAL LABORATORY, 54, Holborn Viaduct, London, January 18th, 1888.

I hereby certify that I have submitted to a careful examination and Chemical Analysis a sample, purchased by myself from the stock of a well-known firm of Wholesale Druggists, of the preparation known as "Koko for the Hair." I have found nothing in this preparation which could be injurious either to the head or hair, and the results of the analysis lead me to pronounce "Koko for the Hair" a pleasant dressing, which would undoubtedly be advantageous in many cases. I discovered in the preparation no ingredient of the nature of a colouring matter or dye.

EDWY GODWIN CLAYTON, F.I.C., F.C.S., Member of the Society of Public Analysts, &c.

TESTIMONIALS.

Miss ELLEN TERRY, the great actress, says:—"I have used KOKO for the Hair for years, and can assure my friends that it stops the hair from falling off, promotes its growth, keeps the head cool and free from dandruff, and is the most pleasant dressing imaginable."

HAS DONE MUCH.—Mr. E. W. COOPER, 33, Bailey Street, Luton, Beds., writes—"In a few weeks your 'Koko' has done much to prove its own merits. No doubt by my recommendation you will receive further orders."

FROM "THE PROFESSION."—Mr. BERNEY WIGELAND, of Toole's Theatre, Strand, W.C., writes—"'Koko' will certainly arrest the falling off of the hair, strengthen, and increase its growth. I have recommended it to many friends, and in every case it has given great satisfaction."
